English Nose Guard Against German Gases.

This nose guard is now worn by the allies in the trenches in the fighting around the Yser canal, where the Germans, just the other day, released poisonous gases to drive them from their trenches. The nose guard was invented for use earlier when the Germans shot bombs containing poisonous gases. Now it will be used against the chlorine, which has become a German weapon of war.

When a heavy yellow cloud of acrid fumes went drifting south from the German trenches at evening on Thursday, April 22, and rolled over the French lines near Langemark, the defenders were taken by surprise.

To stay in the deadly cloud meant asphyxiation. Some made their escape. The stubborn ones who stayed at their posts perished without a wound. When the cloud had blown past and the German infantry could advance, they found trenches vacant or held only by dead men. Pressing on they took whole batteries of artillery which stood silent and harmless. Following up their advantages, the German troops rushed the second and third lines of their enemy and at one point, without much difficulty, actually crossed the canal which forms the base of the great Ypres salient.

Raw Skimmed Milk a Foot-and-Mouth Manace

WASHINGTON, April 30.—A feature of the present outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease to which the Federal authorities attach much importance is the unprecedentedly large number of hogs which have been affected. Both actually and in proportion to the total number of animals stricken, this has been much larger than in any of the previous outbreaks in this country. The chief reason, the authorities say, is the spread of the infection through uncooked skimmed milk and other creamery by products returned to the farms to be fed hogs. Infected garbage, it is thought, is also to be held responsible for a portion of the loss.

In the epidemic of 1902 in which 4,461 animals were lost, only 380 of the total were hogs. The loss in cattle amounted to nearly 87 per cent of the total, that in hogs to only 8 per cent, and in other animals to only 5 per cent. In the present epidemic, however, the loss in hogs has been almost equal to that of cattle, each being within a fraction of 47 per cent. Of 146,138 animals lost since the outbreak of the disease in Michigan last fall, 68,776 were cattle; 68,275 hogs; and the remainder, 9,087 sheep and goats. The epidemic of 1903 started in this respect as well as in time, midway between those of 1902 and 1914. In 1908, 56 per cent of the loss was in cattle, 37 per cent in hogs, and approximately 7 per cent in other animals.

In the opinion of specialists these figures demonstrate the necessity for more rigid regulations in regard to the feeding of skimmed milk, similar dairy products and garbage. Since 1902 creameries have become much more common and the danger to the country of their returning unpasteurized milk to the farms has become correspondingly greater. In Michigan, it has been definitely established that in the early days of the outbreak the infection was spread through skimmed milk fed to hogs, and there is every reason to believe that the same thing occurred in a number of other localities. It is easy to pasteurize the skimmed milk and the extra expense is not sufficient to warrant the neglect of this precaution. Pasteurization has been shown to be a complete safeguard against the spread of foot-and-mouth disease through milk, either to human beings or to animals.

The question of infected garbage is more difficult to handle, for by no means all of the meat in this country is subject to Federal inspection. In many sections meat animals are slaughtered locally. Cooking will destroy the foot-and-mouth germ so that this meat can be eaten without bad results, but the trimmings—the skin, the feet and particularly the marrow which are thrown away or fed to hogs, may be at the same time highly infectious.

In Philadelphia the disease has recently appeared at several points of garbage-fed hogs, and although it is not absolutely certain that the contagion was conveyed through this means it seems quite possible that it was. The sterilization of garbage intended for hogs, it therefore, like the pasteurization of skimmed milk and similar products, a very desirable precaution. In fact, the Federal authorities do not hesitate to say that experience in this outbreak demonstrates the need of state legislation on this subject. In the absence of legislation the farmer who wishes to be sure of his skimmed milk should boil it after its return from the creamery.

Slow Progress in Law.

An echo of the Titanic disaster of April 14, 1912, reaches us in the handing down of a Federal court decision that permits claimants who filed suit in the American courts for damages against the owners of the Titanic to withdraw their claims from that forum and file them anew in the English courts. It is stated that the transfer was occasioned by diversity of American and British laws and rulings. It appears that, if the defendant steamship company's application for a limitation of its liabilities should be sustained, the maximum amount recoverable by all the claimants together would be, under American law, $57,000, and under British law, $300,000. The presumption is that the maximum amount must be distributed pro rata among the litigants whose claims are sanctioned by the court. The reason for the transfer to England is therefore obvious. One of these litigants, however, has a claim for $300,000 for the loss of her husband. Since death claims must, it is said, be filed within a year after the loss it is contended that the withdrawal of her claim before American courts is tantamount to the abandonment of the item. The progress of the Titanic litigation is no very fine exhibition of the law's expedition.—Charlotte Observer.

In Hot Weather.

"Typographical errors," said a writer, "are continually cropping up. I called for a magazine editor the other day to take him out to luncheon. As he was getting gratefully into his coat, a man entered. "Do you read your magazine?" the man asked. "I do," the editor replied. "Have you read the new number, the one that came out yesterday?" "I have." "Have you read my poem, 'To Gabrielle,' on page 117?" "No! Well, in that poem I wrote the line, 'I love you better than I love my life.'" "A neat line—neat and well turned," said the editor, soothingly. "And one of the professional humorists of your composing room set it up to read, 'I love you better than I love my wife.'" "How—er—" "That my wife—precisely that. And my wife knows nothing of composing room comedy, and she thinks the line was printed exactly like I wrote it."

AD CLUB MEN WILL HAVE GOOD MEETING

ON NEXT THURSDAY NIGHT
—INTERESTING PROGRAM AND A SMOKER

WINDOW CONTEST

Will be Held This Summer on Larger Scale Than the One
Recently Held.

The net regular monthly meeting of the Anderson Ad Club will be held Thursday night, May 6, at the quarters of the chamber of commerce, and promises to be one of the most important that has yet taken place. An interesting program has been prepared for the occasion. The meeting will be in the nature of a smoker and delightful refreshments will be served. President Harry Geisberg of the club stated yesterday that he hopes the entire membership of the club will be on hand for this meeting.

Owing to the great success of the past window dressing contest, the officers of the Ad Club have decided to have another contest. This one is to be on a much larger scale than the first, and is to include far more contestants. The plans now are to have the contest on the 4th of July, and have other celebrations in connection with it. By having the contest on this day, the merchants will become more interested in it, and as the windows are usually bedecked on that day, the contest will increase the efforts of the men doing the decorating. One change from the previous contest is that the prizes will be larger and more valuable. The first contest was a kind of experiment and the club had to do with what it could. This coming one is to be much larger and will be even better than the first one was in proportion.

LAST CALL TODAY FOR CITY TAXES

Those Who Have Not Yet Discharged This Duty Should Get Busy.

The last call for paying taxes in the city of Anderson is today, May 1st. The time limit expired last night in reality, but owing to the first of the month coming on Saturday, the city fathers have decided to allow one more day of grace.

Approximately 1,900 receipts have been issued from the office of the city clerk and treasurer and there are still several hundred of them to come in. These must be paid before 6 o'clock today or the usual penalties are charged.

Costs of $1.00 and 15 per cent of the tax to be paid is added to all taxes not paid by 6 o'clock. Be sure and get to the city hall early in the day if your taxes are not yet paid.

GREENVILLE LADS DEFEATED LOCALS

In Fast Game of Baseball at Park Yesterday Afternoon.

The Central High School of Greenville defeated the local high school team yesterday afternoon in a game of baseball played at the baseball park in Anderson. The game was a walkover at the first, Greenville scoring six runs in the first few innings. After this first outbreak Anderson tightened and in the last inning ran in three runs, thus bringing the score to a much more creditable one than was before. The final score was 9 to 6 in Greenville's favor. Error on both teams and many long hits served to enliven the game. Anderson's rally in last frames seemed to be good for a tie game, if not for a win, but by some pretty work, Greenville sewed the game up in short order.

DELIGHTFUL RECITAL

Given at Anderson College Last Evening by "Betty Hamilton." Before a large and appreciative audience, "Betty Hamilton" (Mrs. M. V. Moore) gave a delightful recital in Anderson College auditorium last evening, reading some of her delightful character sketches in Southern dialect of the plantation negroes. Mrs. Moore has given these readings from New York to California and in New York City and Philadelphia has played a number of return engagements. She was for two years on the chautauqua platform in New York. The recital was given for the benefit of Anderson College.

Now Mrs. Harrod Got Rid of Her Stomach Trouble. "I suffered with stomach trouble for years and tried everything I heard of, but the only relief I got was temporary until last spring I saw Chamberlain's Tablets advertised and procured a bottle of them at our drug store. I got immediate relief from that dreadful heaviness after eating and from pain in the stomach," writes Mrs. Linda Harrod, Fort Wayne, Ind. Obtainable everywhere.
